Case studies

Financial Support Centre

We work with a large overseas owned group of New Zealand businesses that hold large commercial property investment portfolios in New Zealand (in excess of $100m) and act as their New Zealand point of contact for shareholders, directors, auditors, legal advisors, property managers and the bank.

We've worked with them for many years as their trusted business adviser, and apart from managing all accounting and tax compliance obligations, we also provide assistance with structural planning, cash flow forecasting and tax advice.

Outsourced Finance Function

We work for a large US based group with trading interests in New Zealand with a small sales team based here. We carry out their New Zealand finance function for them and ensure bookkeeping, tax compliance, payroll and financial reporting are all taken care of, allowing our client to concentrate on building their sales. If anything arises that requires specialised attention, our team is on call to help them out.

Virtual Finance Function

We act for a New Zealand listed company who have an existing in-house team taking care of their day-to-day finance functions but no in-house CFO or CEO with a finance/accounting background. We provide monthly financial advice in the form of a review of their financial reports and meet with their financial principals (either in person or over the phone). This is done by the lead partner or manager working with them – whoever the client prefers – who acts as their 'virtual CFO'. Should any major issue arise (for example, an acquisition target) we escalate the attention and call on our experienced professionals. On 'business as usual' months, the client knows that they still have an on-call resource they can turn to who knows and cares about their business.

Seconded CFO

We act for a subsidiary of a large US based group with extensive trading and investment interests in New Zealand. They had a team in place taking full care of their finance function from day-to-day processes to long-term strategic considerations but as a result of an internal reorganisation, the company required a new CFO at short notice – someone with financial best practice savvy and experience, but without necessarily having a full understanding of the company's particular industry. We were able to provide on short notice an acting CFO on a temporary basis where our PwC team member was seconded full-time at the client's premises for about five months. This gave our client a 'safe pair of hands' on the ground to bridge them through a time of considerable change.

Outsourced finance function

We act for a fast growing, New Zealand hi-tech business, who are leading the market in the mobile-marketing industry and are currently looking at expansion into the US. We provide them with a full range of finance services from day-to-day bookkeeping, invoice generation, supplier payments, payroll services, monthly management account preparation, GST return preparation, accounting and tax compliance and structural/strategic advice. We are currently looking at optimisation of their finance function for them by the most efficient use of cloud accounting.
